

Joint Programming Initiatives Benefitting from Transnational Cooperation

Margit Noll

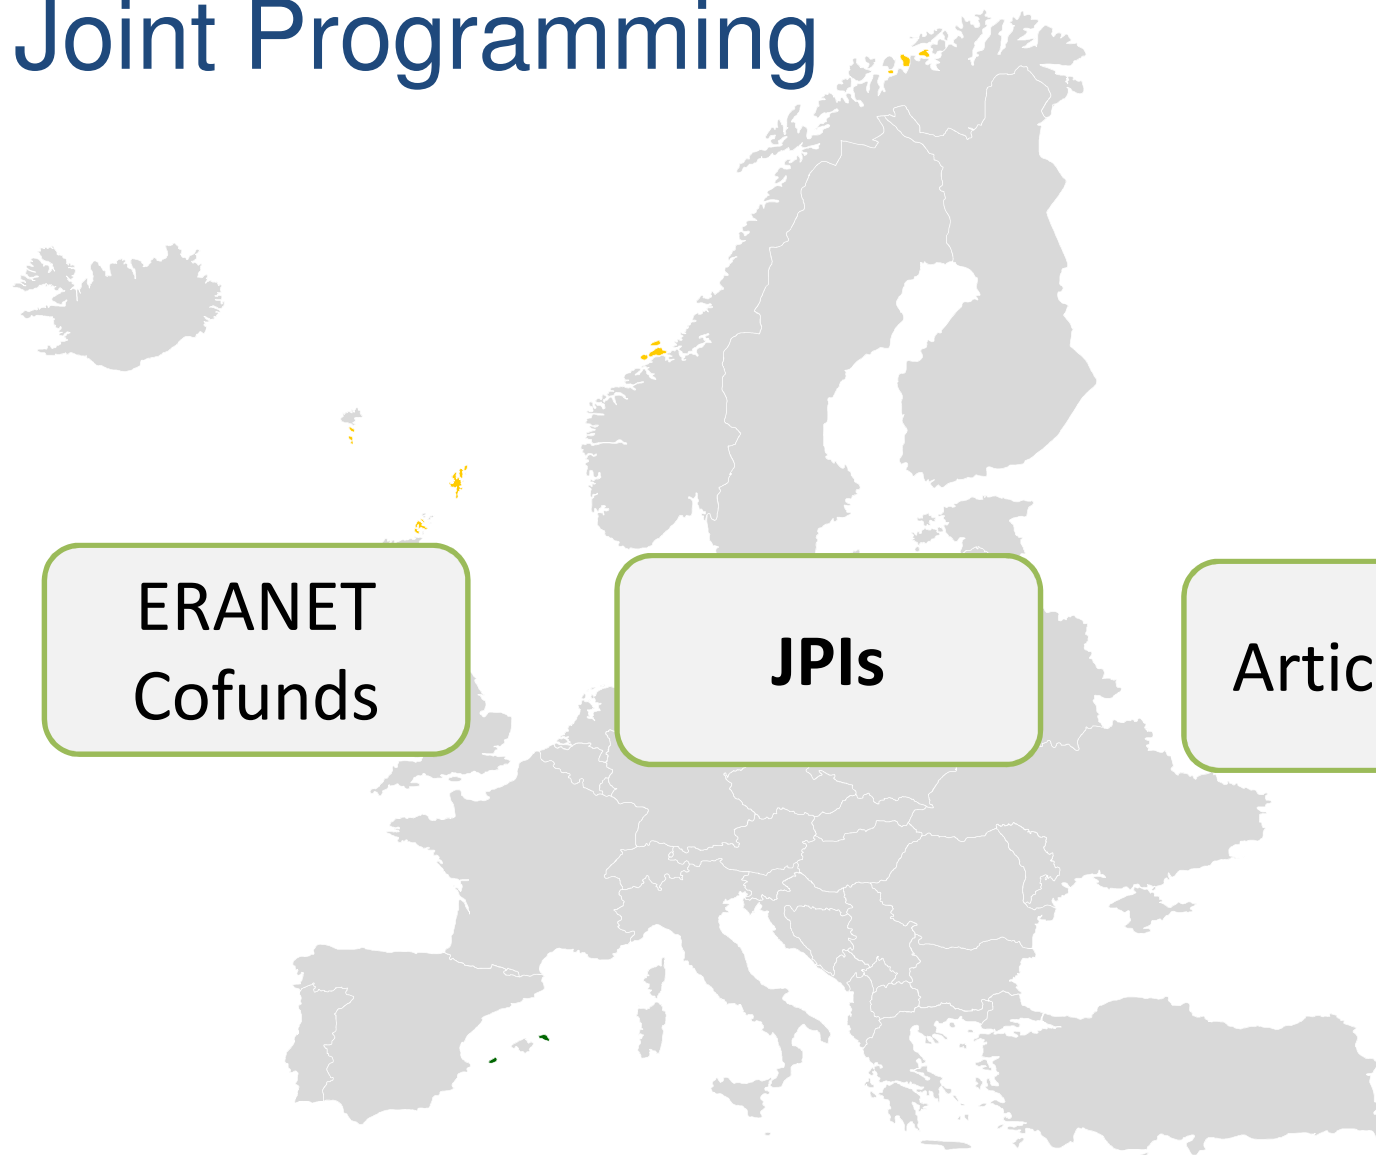

Joint Programming Initiative Urban Europe

Chair of the Management Board

margit.noll@jpi-urbaneurope.eu

Joint Programming

ERANET
Cofunds

JPIs

Article 185

Joint Programming Initiatives

- focus on grand societal challenges
- are intergovernmental processes enabling countries to
  - develop shared political visions
  - agree on common Strategic Research and Innovation Agendas
  - set-up a portfolio of instruments and joint implementation actions
- provide a basis for long-term cooperation of policy makers, increasing the value of research, development, innovation and infrastructure investments at all levels

Impact of Joint Programming Initiatives

- New forms of long-term collaboration between local, regional, national and European policy makers and actors
- Building-up innovation ecosystems to create and implement research results
- Fostering and testing innovative instruments and science-policy cooperation
- Gateways for scientific excellence, relevance and international cooperation

Implementation Measures

Added Value of EC and H2020 Support

- Strategic and policy cooperation
  - liaise with different EC units and policy areas
- Financial support through CSA to
  - raise capacities for developing and testing new instruments
  - support internationalisation efforts and mobilisation of Widening Countries
- Cooperation in ERANET Cofunds to
  - reduce barriers for new partners to join a JPI
  - overcome drawbacks of virtual common pot solutions
  - allows to align research priorities on transnational and European level

The Way Forward

- Widen participation in Europe and beyond, reinforcing long-term partnerships between governments and RDI communities
- Continue to adapt the JPI strategies and improve instruments to match the coming research and innovation needs
- Mutual learning among and cooperation of JPIs to respond to the complex nature of societal challenges
- Strengthen alignment on policy, strategic and operational level to establish JPIs as European hubs on a global scale
  - among participating national partners
  - within various policy fields
  - between JPIs and European Framework Programme

Thank you!

